MANAGEMENT DISCUSSION AND ANALYSIS

Industry structure and developments

Indian markets were one of the best performing markets globally in 2014. The BSE Sensex and NSE Nifty jumped 30% buoyed by hopes of a better economy and reforms by the present government. India also emerged as one of the strongest economies amongst the emerging markets.

Currently the markets are negative for the year, but most analysts are of the opinion that the current sell-off is a periodic correction of the markets.

The key drivers for growth in India will continue to be reforms. Strong reforms in various sectors will be an important catalyst for the markets in 2015. Markets cheered the reforms introduced by the new government in 2014 such as diesel deregulation, FDI in construction and re-allocation of coal blocks.

Decline in interest rates will be an important trigger for the markets. India has been battling with high inflation. However, inflation contracted sharply in 2014 due to lower food, oil and commodity prices. The Reserve Bank of India has started cutting rates in the first quarter of the calendar year, but it may not exceed 0.5-0.7% this year.

In 2014, Foreign Institutional Investors (FIIs) pumped close to $16 billion (Rs 96,573 crore) into equities. Brokerages are optimistic about domestic inflows into equities in 2015. The robust sentiment in anticipation of economic reforms could see additional FII inflows this year.

The last four-five years witnessed large outflows from the equity markets into other asset classes like real estate and gold. Going forward, it is expected that this may reverse. DSP BlackRock Mutual Fund expects domestic inflows of about $10-15 billion into Indian equities. They believe relative returns from equities would be better than other asset classes in 2015.

With a gradual pick-up in demand, fall in raw material prices as well as the improvement in economic conditions, corporate earnings are expected to gather momentum in the coming quarters. Corporate profits may rise at least 17-18% in each of the next two years, according to brokerage firm IIFL.

Geopolitical risks such as the situation in Russia and Ukraine, and ISIS-related problems in Iraq and the Middle East are some of the biggest uncertainties for the markets. The Russia/Ukraine situation was seen as by far the biggest geopolitical risk for 2015, according to 84 economists who participated in a Bloomberg survey in December 2014.

The Eurozone is already facing slowdown-related issues. On top of this, talks of Greece exiting the Eurozone are back. Will Eurozone be able to handle another crisis in Greece? Markets are speculating whether EU countries will slip into recession again. If that happens, markets around the world may slump. This could affect Indian markets too.

The US economy, which faced a recession after the 2008 financial crisis, is finally picking up. The US central bank, Federal Reserve, indicated that it is confident about the recovery and, thus, may raise interest rates this year. Brokerage firms expect the Fed to raise rates in mid-2015. If the US hikes rates sooner than anticipated, it could lead to the exit of foreign investments from India and cause volatility in the markets.

The price of oil is down nearly 55% in value since June 2014, and shows no signs of abating. This week, prices slipped below $50 a barrel, its lowest since 2009. Analysts expect prices to remain weak in the medium term. Oil prices could rise if consumption picks up or if output is cut. In such a case, oil import-dependent India could suffer.

Opportunities and Threats

Your Company being an investment Company seeks opportunities in the capital market. The volatility in the stock indices in the financial year under report represents both an opportunity and challenge for the Company.

The business of subsidiary company i.e. LKP Securities Ltd. is affected by the sentiments prevailing in the stock markets.

LKP Securities Ltd. is one of the reputed broking houses of the country, having a network of 2000 plus outlets across India. The company has put in place a new team to drive the retail business. Moreover this year this business will be spun off as a separate entity to give it more focus.

The Company is empanelled with most of the reputed domestic financial institutions including life and non insurance companies, mutual funds, foreign financial institutions and corporates, apart from having large number of HNI and retail clients. The likely increase in capital mobilisation from the primary market, increase in resource mobilisation by mutual funds and phenomenal growth in secondary market volumes provide significant business opportunities for the Company.

Capital market activities in which most of our activities depend on is also influenced by global events and hence there is an amount of uncertainty in the near term outlook of the market.

Segment-wise Performance

The Company being a holding Company is engaged in investment activities and other financial services during the year under review, hence the requirement of segment-wise reporting is considered irrelevant.

Outlook

The perception about India has changed dramatically in the last 12 months. There was widespread disenchantment with the lackadaisical leadership of the previous government that lacked a coherent economic strategy and vision to reinvigorate growth.

Political instability, protracted economic slowdown (with growth below 5% for two consecutive years) and policy paralysis has given way to rising confidence in the incumbent Prime Minister's (Narendra Modi) decisive leadership and his government's ability to revive the economy and pave the path for economic resurgence in 2015-2016, and political stability.

Soaring stock markets, rising business confidence and consumer confidence attest to such optimism about the economy.

The IMF forecasts that India will become a $2-trillion economy in 2014 – the tenth biggest in the world – and will cross the $3-trillion threshold in 2019, which would make it the world's seventh biggest economy. Last year, after the BJP got a majority in the 2014 general elections, all major financial firms had revised their Sensex and Nifty targets upwards.

While UBS had raised its Nifty target for December 2014 to 8,000, it further revised its target in November 2014 and said that Nifty would hit 9,600 by December 2015.

Citigroup, too, had in December 2014 raised its Nifty target to 9,850 and Sensex target to 33,000 by December 2015. Similarly, Goldman Sachs raised the target for the Nifty index to 9,000 points for September 2015 as against its previous target of 8,600 for June 2015

But, twelve months into the governments term, its failure to produce detailed plans to improve India's poor infrastructure, streamline the countrys complicated tax rules and remove high government subsidies in order to fulfil the BJP's lofty promises is glaring.

The proposals contained in the Budge for 2015-16 prioritise growth and push back by one year the governments fiscal-consolidation target. Investment in infrastructure and expansion of welfare benefits are particular areas of focus in the budget. In an effort to improve the business environment, a date has been set for the implementation of the goods and services tax. Although the new budget is not revolutionary, it holds out the promise of stronger economic growth, a revival of manufacturing, an easing of business rules and an increase in foreign investment.

However, Finance Minister has argued that the government is on target to achieve this goal, through a reduction in Plan expenditure , and the finance minister has now set out plans to increase infrastructure spending in future in order to boost economic growth, while pushing back by one year, to 2017/18, the governments target of reducing the fiscal deficit to 3% of GDP. Infrastructure and manufacturing receive special attention in the budget. This is a much-needed feature of the governments plans, given that the total value of stalled infrastructure projects in India stood at Rs8.8trn, equivalent to 7% of annual GDP, at the end of 2014. The projected increase in indirect taxes as a share of total tax revenue is a source of concern, given that direct taxes are generally a more reliable source of income and have a less marked distortionary impact on the economy; indirect tax revenue is budgeted at 44.7% of gross tax receipts in 2015/16, up from 43.3% in the current fiscal year.

Long-term growth drivers for India continue to be positive.

“Demographic dividend”: Half of India's 1.2-billion population is under the age of 25. By 2020, India will have the world's youngest population, with a median age of 29 years, compared with a median age of 37 in China. This demographic dividend could potentially give India the biggest labor force and make it the largest consumer market in the world.

Growing middle class: India's middle class of 250 million already represents one of the biggest consumer markets in the world. This educated, tech-savvy and relatively affluent group is expected to continue its rapid growth in the years ahead.

Low penetration of goods and services: Despite the economy's progress over the past quarter-century, the Indian market still has a relatively low penetration of goods and services, which translates into massive untapped potential. For example, in 2009, there were only 11 passenger cars per 1,000 people in India, compared with 34 in China, 179 in Brazil, 233 in Russia, and 440 in the U.S.

A functioning democracy: One of India's greatest strengths is that it is a vibrant and functioning – albeit a trifle chaotic – democracy, where the electorate regularly exercises its constitutional right to kick out non-performing governments. India's army, one of the world's largest, is also staunchly apolitical and has consistently remained aloof from political shenanigans.

Established companies and institutions: India has a thriving business sector with dynamic SMEs and large companies that are increasingly expanding overseas, educational institutions that are among the world's best, and competent financial organizations. Raghuram Rajan, who was formerly chief economist at the IMF, currently heads India's central bank, the Reserve Bank of India (RBI).

To conclude this government is amply demonstrating its pro-business, pro-reform, investor friendly and strong development agenda by trying to revive the flagging economy, improve the business climate and set the stage for bolder economic reforms (to put the Indian economy on a high growth trajectory of 7-8% in the medium term and even a higher growth rate in the long term). Modi is wisely initiating consistent and steady 'structural reforms' (rather than rely on 'big bang' reforms to please markets) demonstrative of a sound long-term economic vision, eschewing populism and focusing on improved governance.
